

MRS. EDDY LAID AT REST TODAY

SIMPLE SERVICES MARK FUN- ERAL OF LATE LEADER

BODY PLACED IN VAULT

Later Will Be Placed in Elaborate
Mausoleum That Will Be Built.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Boston, Mass., Dec. 8.—The body of Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science, was laid to rest in a receiving vault in Mount Auburn cemetery today after simple funeral services at her late home. The Chestnut Hill mansion at Newton.

The services for the late religious leader were brief and of the most serene simplicity. There was no music and those who attended were members of the immediate family and household together with a few high officials of the Christian Science organization. A small cluster of pink roses from the household was the only floral tribute.

The last rites, which began promptly at eleven o'clock, were conducted by Judge Clifford P. Smith, first reader the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, assisted by Mrs. Carol Hoyt Powers, the second reader.

After the services the body was taken to Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, and placed in the receiving vault where it will remain, guarded until the completion of the mausoleum, erected on a plot of ground consisting of three lots on the north side of Halloway lake, which has been purchased by friends of Mrs. Eddy.

Nearby rests the remains of men and women who were famous in their life time. Opposite the site of Mrs. Eddy's tomb is that of Longfellow.

On account of a fear that vandals might destroy the resting place of the leader of the Christian Science faith, her body in the receiving vault will be guarded night and day by members of the church.

TAP-LINE QUESTION UP FOR HEARING

Before Representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission at New Orleans.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New Orleans, La., Dec. 8.—What is hoped will be a final hearing in the so-called tap line question was begun before representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission in this city today. The decision that will result from the hearing will, it is expected, fix the status of the hundreds of tap lines, or short railroads connecting with interstate common carriers, in all parts of the country.

The important problem of what constitutes a tap line and what constitutes a common carrier is involved in the question of the relations of the tap lines to the regularly recognized common carriers, and as a consequence the final decision in the controversy is awaited with keen interest by both railroads and shippers.

The tap roads operate within a state, but participate in the interstate traffic with the large roads. The trunk lines and regular railways generally have had divisions of freight cars in force with these small enterprises. The Interstate Commerce Commission condemned the division arrangement on the ground that the tap roads were not interstate common carriers, but merely commercial enterprises, allowance to which enabled the maintenance of rebates. Many of the big roads cancelled these divisions, but on petition these cancellations were ordered to be investigated to determine whether the tap lines are common carriers.

The special case now up for hearing, involving the whole matter of tap lines, allowances and divisions, is that of the Star Grain and Lumber company against the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe and other railroads.

According to estimates there are nearly eight hundred of the so-called tap lines in the United States. A majority of them are lumber lines which tap the regular common carriers in Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and other parts of the South. In addition to these there are many industrial tap lines in the Central Freight association's territory.

Calls a Conference.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—To promote the cause of an international court of justice, the American Society for Judicial Settlement of International disputes in completing arrangements for a conference to be held in this city next week. The sessions will be held at the New Willard hotel, beginning one week from today.

The conference will consider the draft convention adopted by the second Hague conference, the benefit to the world which may confidently be expected to follow the establishment of the court, the best way in which to secure general adherence to the court so as to make it a court of all nations, and the means by which public attention may best be centered on the subject.

President Taft will make an important address before the conference, bearing upon judicial settlement of great international disputes. Among the other eminent men who have accepted invitations to address the conference are Secretary of State Knox, Senator Elihu Root of New York, Charles W. Eliot of Massachusetts, Governor-elect Simon C. Baldwin of Connecticut, Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, Thomas Nelson Page, the novelist and Francis H. Loomis, former Assistant Secretary of State.

Several eminent foreign publicists and statesmen also have been invited to take part in the conference. James Brown Scott of this city is president of the society which is sponsoring the conference. John Hay Hammond is vice president. Theodore Marburg of Baltimore is secretary, and J. G. Schindler of Cincinnati, treasurer. President Taft is honorary president of the organization.

It is felt by the society and by those who have consented to take part in the proceedings that the meeting will not only aid the far-sighted men who are bending their energies toward the realization of the project of the international court of arbitration, but that it will contribute powerfully to the creation and strengthening of the public sentiment so essential to the successful operation of the court.

GRAFT IS FOUND IN JAIL CONSTRUCTION

Floor of La Crosse County Jail Constructed of Cement Instead of Chrome Steel as Specified.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Crosse, Wis., Dec. 8.—The discovery that the floor of the La Crosse county jail is nothing more than an easily destructible cement and not chrome steel as specified by Architect Allan D. Conover, Madison, now president of the state board of control, has created a sensation here and may mean the entire reconstruction of the jail to render it proof against escape.

That graft was entered into in the construction of the building was plainly shown following an investigation and report by the county board yesterday. Hugo Schick, who built the jail, is dead, and no action, it is said, will be taken, however, as the county officials are unable to find the original specifications.

STRINGENT LAWS TO BE PROPOSED

RELATIVE TO WEIGHTS AND MEASURES IN NEXT LEGIS-LATURE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—A more stringent state-law governing weights and measures will be advocated before the next Wisconsin legislature. Notice to this effect was given yesterday afternoon by Prof. Leonard S. Smith, state sealer, before the Madison women's club, at a meeting for the discussion of honest weights, at which the principal speaker was J. C. Janssen, chief inspector of weights and measures for Milwaukee, who exhibited a collection of confiscated scales and measures. Mayor J. C. Schuchert, Alderman John C. Prien, chairman of the public market committee, and R. W. Davis, county treasurer-elect, who is by statute the county sealer, also took part in the discussions.

Prof. Smith stated the proposed law will provide that any weight of any kind, if it does not have upon it the sealer's stamp, approved, whether O. K. or otherwise, has laid the owner liable to arrest for a misdemeanor. The passage of such a law would make necessary at once the creation of a city sealer in every municipality not now having such an official.

Chief Inspector Janssen related in detail the numberless methods by which dishonest dealers have defrauded Milwaukeeans in the past, and of the remarkable success that has followed an unrelenting enforcement of that city's ordinances governing weights and measures. Up to Oct. 1, he and his deputies had inspected 6,717 scales and re-inspected 322. Of the 6,717 inspected, 2,975 were all right, 1,641 were adjusted, and 1,100 were condemned. Fifty-one and three-tenths per cent were found good and 48.7 per cent correct. Twenty-eight thousand measures were found good, a proportion of 77.8 per cent of those inspected. A total of 3,858 stores of all kinds were inspected, and 2,346 office inspections made (mail dealers, peddlers, and others coming to the headquarters to have their scales examined). The department began with two men and now employs four. The cost of the department in 1910 was estimated at about $5,000. In 1911 the expense is expected to be about $3,000, it being planned to add improvements, to pay better salaries and to employ more help. Daily from five to twenty business men are hauled on the carpet before Inspector Janssen. They include grocers, butchers, peddlers, confectioners, farmers, ice dealers, department store managers, etc. Sixty cases have been prosecuted in nine months, of which only three were lost. Those aggregating $800 were collected. No names are given out publicly until the offenders are in court, when the newspapers give the necessary notice, which always serves as a warning to other short-sighted dealers.

It is much harder to convict under the present state law than under Milwaukee's ordinance, the state law requiring that intent to defraud must be proven. When proven, however, the penalty is a stiff one, a fine of $400 being possible.

Mr. Janssen said the inspectors often stop customers with packages coming from stores and testing their weight. Appropriate action is then taken with the dealer, if necessary. Last April he sent two men on a trip of inspection of 80 stores to test butchers. In only four places visited did the prints weight 16 ounces. Six weeks ago, on an inspection of the same stores, there were only three places where correct weight was not given.

"In this way alone," he said, "a good many thousand dollars are saved to Milwaukee buyers in better purchases alone."

After inspection, a scale is labeled with a green seal in the shape of a large star. If giving short weight, a special label is placed upon it, and it cannot be removed, under penalty, until the inspector orders it.

Under a new ordinance in Milwaukee, all bread must be sold by weight. He said a law will be enacted by congress requiring all food products to be labeled as to quantity, just as the pure food law requires labeling as to quality.

Prof. Smith stated that a bottomless measure is not a measure at all and is not so recognized by law, because it does not measure anything. This device was a common method of fraud in Milwaukee before the sealer was appointed. The percentage of short weight from the bottomless measure of the stove-pipe brand is about 15 per cent. Many unscrupulous dealers have a clever way of routing one hand on a scale while weighing goods. Others "forget" to put on a small weight in particular cases. Liquid measures are often used for dry measures. In one case, Mr. Janssen prosecuted a grocer and made him pay $25 and costs for selling one quart of cranberries in a dishonest manner. Bottomless measures were used in about 60 per cent of the stores of Milwaukee before the honest weight department was started. This measure holds the right amount of cubic weight but can be made to easily short-weight potatoes, etc.

Mr. Janssen said it is always the storekeeper or his clerk who "fix" the scales, the manufacturer not being held responsible. When scales are officially sealed, the chance for tampering with them and not being found out is reduced to a minimum.

FEDERAL COURT HAS MANY LIQUOR CASES

Dealers Selling Indiana Fire-water
Tried for the Offense Before Judge Sanborn.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—Louis Warner, a Washburn saloonkeeper, was found not guilty by a jury in the federal court this morning on a charge of selling liquor to an Indian. The trial of George E. Benedict, a bartender of Ashland, on a similar charge, was begun.

Wesley Bartel, aged 22, of Bayfield, pleaded guilty to introducing liquor on the reservation. Judge Sanborn withheld his sentence.

The government recently indicted 18 saloonkeepers on charges relating to the sale of liquor to Indians. For years it has arrested the Indians themselves, but now it proposes to make examples of the men who are responsible for the Indians' possession of fire-water. The crusade was waged by W. E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson and his deputies.

MANY RADICAL PROVISIONS Planned for That Will Protect the Purchasers From Thieving Dealers.

COUNTERFEITER IN TOILS OF LAW

Clever $5 Counterfeit Bills Are Put Into Circulation.

BILL WAS ENGRAVED IN ITALY

Cesare Paoletti Arrested by Clever Ruse in Which He Was Caught With the Goods; and Promised to "Tell Whole Truth."

New York, Dec. 8.—There is an engraver in Leghorn, Italy, who when he has learned that the English word treasury is not spelled "T-r-e-a-s-u-r-e" will be able to turn out United States counterfeit five dollar bills—unless some thing legal and painfully sudden happens to him. May be you have one of them now; 500 of the bills were unloaded on New York about a month ago, according to the local secret service men who were the cause of having a boss coal stoker on an Italian ship placed in the Tomba charged with trying to sell 500 more of the bills to a federal agent for $375 in regular money in the back room of a saloon at Broadway and Bleecker street.

It was just about a month ago that the federal authorities heard of the arrival in town of the first batch of the best made counterfeit bills that the secret service men, they said, have seen in many years. The counterfeit, known as the Harrison head, contains signatures of the president and cashier of the Mechanics and Metals bank, which look real, and which have passed muster even when handed through the windows of various New York banks and business houses.

The quality of the paper, the scroll work, the serial numbers will pass for the real thing. But the engraver over in Italy forgot one small matter which loomed up large when the bill was placed under a magnifying glass. Follow the registrar's name on the face of the $5 bill in minute lettering is the misspelled word "Treasure." The red and blue strands of silk that well born bills from Washington show, were copied so carefully with ink that they appeared also to be real until one tore the bill across the "strand."

Secret service men who started after the counterfeiters noted that the coming of the bill to town was simultaneous with the arrival here a month ago of the steamer Italia, of the Anchor line. The agents placed the crew of the Italia on their suspected list and started investigations.

The banks in the meantime were on the lookout for the bad bills and began to take them up. None of the bills was presented in its brand new state, but before putting the bills in circulation, the distributors first had taken care to crumple them and cover them with grime as an extra precaution against detection.

When the Italia got here from the Mediterranean last Sunday the work of the agents had progressed so successfully that an agent had arranged a meeting with a stoker named Cesare Paoletti, 40 years old, to take place in the back room of the saloon at Bleecker street and Broadway. The agent represented himself to the stoker as a private banker, and offered to buy a bundle of the bad money. The agents charge that Paoletti came to the saloon with $2,500 in $5 counterfeit bills. The agent agreed to take over this "roll" at once and pay in return $475. All this being agreeable as they put in the backroom Paoletti told him all about the engraving of the plates by an artist at Livorno, who got 1,000 francs for the job.

After a conference with the assistant United States attorney who represented the government, U. S. Commissioner Shields held the stoker under $15,000. The stoker, who was not represented by counsel, asked that he be given time to discuss his case with a lawyer. He said that if given time he would tell "the whole truth." In default of bail the stoker was remanded to the Tomba and will be further examined at the federal building on Dec. 14.

40,000 STRIKERS IN PARADE

Monster Demonstration by the Garment Workers in Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Forty thousand striking garment workers marched from Ashland and Jackson boulevards to the west side baseball park in a gigantic demonstration against the firms which had refused their demands for higher wages and recognition of the union.

Waving a large American flag, displaying banners with conspicuous inscriptions assailing the police and displaying red signs despite the order of Chief of Police Steward against such action, the strikers marched to the music of bands playing national airs.

VIOLENT STORMS IN SPAIN

Manzanara River on Rampage and People Are Driven from Homes.

Madrid, Dec. 8.—The storms throughout Spain which have prevailed for the last day or two, are increasing in violence. The rain fall has been heavy. The Manzanara river has overflowed its banks, driving people from their houses and carrying away bridges and everything movable. No fatalities have been reported along the course of the river.

San Francisco Man Shoots in Riot Following Victim's Protest.

LITTLE PEERESS IS TO SEE CORONATION

Baroness Clifton, Though Not Yet Ten Years Old Will Wear the Robe Of Her Ancestress.

London, Dec. 8.—Probably one of the most picturesque figures at the coronation ceremonies next June will be the little Baroness Clifton, the youngest peeress of Great Britain who will have the right to attend the great ceremony. Although the little lady is not quite ten years old, she is having a coronation robe made for her on the lines of those of the other peeresses.

The little Baroness succeeded to her title, in 1906, after the death of her father, the late Lord Darnley, who was the victim of an accident when out with a shooting party. The first Lord Darnley, having married, the heiress of the Barony of Clifton, was raised to the peerage with the title of Baron Clifton in 1608. "Though subsequently created Earl of Darnley, the owner of the title has held his seat in the House of Lords by the other title, which, having come through a woman, descends in the female line. The late Lord Darnley having no son, his infant daughter became Baroness Clifton."

BRODHEAD.

Broadhead, Dec. 8.—Mrs. C. J. Lyons entertained the Sub-Rosa club Wednesday afternoon at a card party. A sumptuous six o'clock dinner was served and all had a most delightful time.

Albert Post, who has been ill with typhoid fever, is reported as somewhat better.

F. A. Cooley is the guest of friends in Janesville and Rockford for the week.

Mrs. Charlotte Thompson is home from a stay of some weeks with Beloit relatives.

Ole Guelson of New London is spending a few days with Brodhead relatives and friends.

Miss Jessie Sherman is the guest of Chicago friends, and will go thence to Oberlin, Ohio to visit Helen French. Mesdames W. Douglas, H. Towns and F. Hooker spent Tuesday in Janesville.

Mrs. L. W. Terry is in Chicago on business.

R. B. Loomis is dangerously sick. Mrs. C. H. Ackison is slowly improving after a week's illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Newman were Janesville visitors on Wednesday.

The first annual exhibit of the Green County Poultry association opens in Broadhead, Dec. 13-17, 1910, in Broadhead's opera house.

FRANK SULLIVAN HURT LAST NIGHT

Machinist at St. Paul Roundhouse Had

Knees Scraped by Blow-off Box

—Narrowly Escaped Death.

Frank T. Sullivan, night machinist at the St. Paul roundhouse, had his knees badly scraped by the blow-off box at the roundhouse and narrowly escaped death while riding on the side of an engine last night. Sullivan was on engine 1012, a large engine of the passenger type. There is barely room enough for the engine to pass between the blow-off boxes, a fact which Sullivan had forgotten. His feet were knocked from under him and he had not reached quickly and grabbed the handles on the engine and tender, he would have fallen under the wheels. He hung there for a second until the engine had passed the blow-off and then called to the engine crew and dropped off. His injuries are very painful, and both limbs are stiff, but he will be able to be about in a few days.

J. F. Anderson has been appointed trainmaster of the Chicago and Milwaukee division. He has assumed his new duties.

According to bulletin, a position is open for one baggage man on runs No. 11 and 8 on the C. & M. division.

Engine 1012 died at Broadhead last night and was towed into the shops here. It was repaired today and went out on a train this afternoon.

Engineer John Callahan has resumed work on the switch engine.

Engineer Knelling and Fireman Lovins with engine 126, went out on 91 this morning.

Engineer Higgins and Fireman Higgins on engine 1000, took an extra west at 11:45 this morning.

YARDMASTER BURNS SENT TO YARDS AT BOONE, IOWA

Is Acting As Trainmaster at That Place for a Few Days to Straighten Out Yards.

Day yardmaster at South Janesville, J. J. Burns, went yesterday to Boone, Iowa, where he is to remain for several days, acting in the capacity of trainmaster there until conditions have been improved. According to reports here, through the employment of boomers switchmen, matters have become decidedly tangled and a state of chaos prevails. Reports are that the Boone yards are full of cars and an experienced man was needed to straighten matters out. It is a splendid testimonial to the capability of Mr. Burns that he should be called upon to take the responsibility and shows that the company is aware of the fact. Mr. Burns will return to his duties here after the work has been completed in Boone. Edward Horn, night yardmaster, is taking his place and John Clough is temporary night yardmaster, relieving Mr. Horn.

GETTING UP PETITION REGARDING WAY CARS

Conductors Will Make Request That Way Cars Be Placed Near Roundhouse at New Yards.

A petition is being circulated among the conductors of freight trains of all divisions on the Northwestern road running into Janesville, to the effect that all way cars be placed on the caboose track near the roundhouse. The reason for the request is that the cars will be convenient to the hotel and nearer to the call boy's office. When the cabooses are placed down in the yards the crews have to walk about half a mile to reach eating and sleeping accommodations.

REPAIR WORK ON CARS ACCOMPLISHED SPEEDILY

Fifty-five Bad Order Cars Made Ready for Service by Car Department

Crew in Seven Days.

The crew of the car department at South Janesville have in the seven days since the first of the present month, made a record for accomplishing a large amount of work. Fifty-five cars have been put in condition for road service in the seven days, an average of nearly eight cars per day. All of the loaded cars have been repaired and work will now be commenced on the remaining cars, foreign cars being attended to first.

Bridge Foreman Thomas Beardon and crew are making repairs on the coal chutes and cinder pits at the new yards. The coal buckets at the chutes are being fixed up and the cinder pit is being re-sheeted.

Night Roundhouse Foreman L. L. Hoffman is laying off on account of sickness. Engineer M. A. Crowley relieved him last night.

"STAY AT HOMES"

YOU are always glad to have your men called that, are you not? And you can make them stay at home if you fit your library, living room or parlor with furniture that is comfortable and that you don't need to be afraid to hurt by sitting in it. MILWAUKEE SOCIALISM.

That there is nothing peculiar about the brand of Milwaukee socialism, will be seen by the following dispatch:

"The socialistic administration of the city of Milwaukee is in full sympathy with the striking garment workers, according to Ald. E. T. Melms, president of the city council, who addressed them in a mass meeting.

"Official Milwaukee again showed its hand when Mayor Seldel sent a letter to Chief of Police Janssen, cautioning the police not to interfere with 'dis-employed citizens' who were not disturbing the peace.

"You have with you the mayor, the city council, and the entire city administration. If any Milwaukee judge should decide against you because you have been picketing, we will see to it that his life on the bench will be a short one," said Ald. Melms.

"I want it understood that no man on the police force has the right to interfere with a citizen who is not violating the law," said Mayor Seldel.

"The Milwaukee Free Press, says, editorially:

"But the alderman's offense did not end here. He wound up by guaranteeing that the socialists would see to it that the police behaved themselves, and as for the judges, if any one of them should run counter to the socialist wishes, they 'would see to it that his life on the bench would be a short one.'

"In other words, we, the people of Milwaukee, are given to understand that if our judges do not hand down decisions in accordance with socialist

Not satisfied with the excitement attending the Dietz trial, the people up in Sawyer county are being entertained with a play entitled "The Defenders of Cameron Dam." Between the theatre and the court room the winter promises to be a continuous round of pleasure.

According to census statistics, just issued, the value of farm lands in the state of Michigan has increased $13 per acre, or 30 per cent, during the last decade, while improvements have increased in value 75 per cent. Nearly half the farms in Michigan are mortgaged.

The city of Rome, Italy, publishes a monthly bulletin of agricultural statistics, covering the world's acreage and product of cereals, from which it appears that Russia in Europe leads the procession in wheat and oats, with the United States playing a close second.

The school children have been enlisted in the sale of red cross stamps and are enthusiastic workers.

The winds about the eaves are crying,

Instructions, they will be summarily decapitated.

"Is Mr. Melms so drunk with brief power that he cannot perceive the ridiculous presumption of such a statement?"

This is socialism in its incipient stages. The same spirit is manifest at the national capitol, just now, where a handful of insurgents have served notice on the President that unless the supreme court is made up to their liking, a strike will be ordered, and all legislation blocked.

The supreme court of the United States is the court of last resort. It is supposed to be a court of justice, free from any taint of prejudice, yet in emergency demands that men be selected to fill vacancies, who are in sympathy with the insurgent movement, the movement which is responsible for political chaos in Wisconsin, and for the popularity of socialism in the state.

THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

The island of Cuba, which for 400 years stood still under Spanish misrule and oppression, is rapidly coming to the front, and is recognized today not only as the great winter playground of America because of its tropical climate, but also as a new Eldorado for American investments, because of unrivaled opportunities.

One of the home influences which is contributing largely to the development of the island, and especially to the city of Havana, is the "Havana Daily Post," the only daily paper in Cuba printed in English.

This enterprising publication recently issued a 16-page tourist edition printed on book paper and highly illustrated with pictures of buildings and street scenes, as well as many interior views showing the products of this most fertile island.

The edition throughout is a work of art, produced by the publisher, George M. Bradt, without regard to expense. It is an honest effort on the part of an honest publisher, to give the people a birdseye view of this wonderful land of perpetual summer.

Cuba is the natural winter resort for American tourists. Easy of access, quaint in its surroundings, historically interesting and instructive, the land of fruit and sunshine, it presents all the attractions to be desired, and the price is within reach of a modest income. The Havana Post is to be congratulated on its spirit of American enterprise.

President Taft favors revising the tariff, one schedule at a time. The principle is all right in theory, but just how it will work out, remains to be seen. The West is clamoring for a reduction on woolen goods, but vigorously demands that wool must not be disturbed. This is true of other lines and emphasizes the fact that the tariff is a local issue from every angle of observation. The cotton schedule includes 400 classifications and many other schedules are equally complex.

Port Huron, Michigan has adopted the commission plan of government and the four commissioners just elected will be installed January 1st. The people are very enthusiastic over results of the election and express confidence in the men elected to serve them. Other cities in Michigan and Wisconsin are discussing the new form of government, which is rapidly gaining in popularity.

Four cattle kings in Nebraska were convicted of fencing in government land for grazing purposes, and sentenced to one year in prison. They traveled over the state for a month to find a county jail to their liking, and finally located at Hastings, in Adams county. Here they fitted up the battle like a palace, and are living on the fat of the land. That sort of justice incites lawlessness.

The canvassing board has decided that Kuestermann was defeated by his democratic rival, Konop, by the narrow margin of five votes. Mr. Kuestermann will contest the decision, but the chances are that his postoffice address will be Green Day, and not Washington, after the first of March, 1911.

Not satisfied with the excitement attending the Dietz trial, the people up in Sawyer county are being entertained with a play entitled "The Defenders of Cameron Dam." Between the theatre and the court room the winter promises to be a continuous round of pleasure.

According to census statistics, just issued, the value of farm lands in the state of Michigan has increased $13 per acre, or 30 per cent, during the last decade, while improvements have increased in value 75 per cent. Nearly half the farms in Michigan are mortgaged.

The city of Rome, Italy, publishes a monthly bulletin of agricultural statistics, covering the world's acreage and product of cereals, from which it appears that Russia in Europe leads the procession in wheat and oats, with the United States playing a close second.

The school children have been enlisted in the sale of red cross stamps and are enthusiastic workers.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

The frost upon the ground is lying;

The winds about the eaves are crying,

And winter hatters at our portals,

brings a chill to gloomy mortals. Out-

tured trees are willing, weary; but in the kitchen all is gladness, there is no sign of winter sadness! Let winter rave till it is dizzy—for Mary Jane is getting busy! Around the stove she makes a clatter; she stirs her good old fuscious butter, and fuses with the trusty skillet, and now with dope she'll dilly all it, and in a minute we'll be eating her buckwheat cakes, all records beating! O buckwheat cakes and maple syrup! Hand me my lyre and hear me chirrup! O may their virtues vanish never! They brace a man for high endeavor; they fill him with a noble ardor—the more we have, we eat the harder—they fill us with a soothing vision of fragrant loaves and fields of grain, and all the world seems bright, and joyous, and trifling ills do not annoy us. Had I the harp of Burns or Shelley I'd sing the rapture of man's belly when to its depth the buckwheat passes, all soaked in Canada molasses!

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

AN EMPTY STOCKING.

There is a picture—I think I first saw it in the Indian Printer a few years ago—entitled "An Empty Stocking," that always touched me to the core.

It is a picture of Christmas morning. A little one in her "nightie" has eagerly jumped out of bed to see what may be in her stockings, so carefully hung on the wall the night before.

They are empty.

The picture shows the poor little kid, her face down upon the bed, in an agony of grief and disappointment. In her hand she holds one of the empty stockings, while the other hangs lean and limp upon the wall.

As you comprehend the picture a great pity seizes you.

The story is all there. In all her future life, you think, this child will never face a deeper sorrow, a keener wound. She was so full of hopes the night before. She believed Santa Claus was too kind to pass by a little girl who had tried to be good. Perhaps she knew that Santa Claus was poor, but certainly he would bring her something.

And she was forgotten.

Poor baby!

It hurts to have your little heart filled clear to the brim with joys.

It is hard to learn when you are only a bit of a girl the lesson of neglect and the world's heartlessness, because between a childish heart and its first great grief is interposed no shield of experience.

You and I know the world's stern ways. We know what it is to trust and be wretched, to hope and fail, to fall and rise and trust again—

But a baby!

The picture is a true one. There will be thousands such when Christmas, not so far away, comes again.

There are homes in your town, in every town, where hunger often shows its haunting face, homes where there are not even a few pennies to buy one little toy. And it takes so little to make happy the heart of a child.

Oh, yes, I know—

The parents may be lazy or the father a drunkard, or what not, but that is no fault of the kiddies. Oh, it is pitiful!

Pitiful that in a land of plenty one little child who craves the ownership of some trifling thing—a cheap doll or a tin soldier—should sob in cruel disillusion, holding in her little hand an empty stocking!

Maybe you can see in such a picture a duty which should be to you a great delight.

DISAPPEARED IN AUTOMOBILE

New Rochelle, N. Y., Robbers Adopt Unique Plan and Secure Jewels and Other Booty Valued at $2,500 from Residence.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Dec. 8.—Two men in evening dress and a woman, all in fur overcoats, with a large yellow automobile and a colored chauffeur, robbed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Murthey, Homestead Park, and are believed to have repeated the trick at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wallace, 39 Bayview avenue. In the Murthey residence $2,000 worth of jewelry was taken, but the silver plate and cut glass in the dining room was not touched. From the Wallace residence the burglars took clothing and jewelry valued at $500.

Miss Eva Glardon, who lives opposite the Murthey home, told the police that she had seen a handsome yellow touring car with a colored chauffeur waiting in front of Murthey's house, and that while she stood on her porch a man and woman in evening dress and fur overcoats emerged from the front door and stood a few moments as though bidding good-bye to some one in the house. As they left the porch the man took off his hat and with a bow, said in a loud voice: "Well, good night, we'll see you next week."

Then he closed the door, handed the woman down the steps and into the automobile, where they were joined by a second man in evening dress and fur coat. The three were driven off rapidly. The man who left the house carried two suit cases.

After the party was out of sight, Miss Glardon noticed one of the parlor windows open, and then remembered that Mrs. Murthey and the maid were away for the day. The window had been latched. The rooms on the second story had been ransacked and the contents of bureau drawers and closets turned out on the floor in the search for jewelry and money. The Wallace residence was entered by breaking a side window, and unfasting a catch.

Colors That Fade.

Addressing the students at the Royal Academy school, Burlington House, Sir Alfred Church remarked that he did not suppose if Sir Joshua Reynolds were living today he would be at all satisfied with the clinical verdicts which were pronounced upon some of the pigments which he used for some years, for unfortunately there was in some of them an element of decay, and certain of them had hardly left a trace in some of his most beautiful portraits. In old illuminated manuscripts which had been long preserved in darkness it was found that on exposure to a strong light the colors began to take on a dull and grayish look. In a great many works at the National gallery ultramarine and in some cases vermilion, had preserved their color unaltered, while old yellow lakes, crimson and cochineal lakes had become more or less embrowned by exposure to strong daylight.—London Standard.

MAKE ARREST IN PEN THEFT CASE

TRUSTED EMPLOYEE OF PARKER PEN CO. ALLEGED THIEF.

MUCH PROPERTY RECOVERED

Chief of Police Runs Case to Ground After Receiving Very Slender Clue.

Benjamin Markman, employed as a pen-fitter by the Parker Pen Co., for nine years past and detailed as special watchman during the noon hour when it is not expedient to return gold and silver mountings and other valuable materials often aggregating $12,000 or more in value to the safe, was placed under arrest for larceny this morning. The specific charge against him was taking 22 pens worth $75 on the seventh of December, but it is subject to amendment.

While the young man is alleged to have confessed to a series of thefts approximating the number and value set forth in the warrant, during a conference with Chief Appleby, District Attorney Fisher, Mr. Parker, and Supt. John Gollmer at the city hall this morning, and as a matter of fact, the young man in court that he would plead guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the tribunal, he finally decided to consult with an attorney before waiving examination and petitioning for immediate trial. The case was adjourned until three o'clock this afternoon and bail fixed at $500. The bonds were not furnished and it was expected that Attorney John Cunningham would visit Markman at the woman's cell in the lock-up prior to the second appearance before Judge Fifield.

Pen Co. Was Unaware.

The fact that the Parker Pen Co. was unaware of the fact that it had lost the pens is one of the interesting aspects of the case. The book records and a count of the merchandise on hand, of course, would have shown the discrepancy, but with from 60,000 to 80,000 pens on hand most of the time, it is not expedient to take inventory of the stock very often. However, every employee is held strictly accountable for pens temporarily delivered into his hands for any purpose and in his capacity as pen-fitter it would have been impossible for Mr. Markman or anyone else to "appropriate" anything without detection.

Where Unraveling Started.

Just a single chance circumstance which might easily have been overlooked, but which was persistently "followed clear through," by Chief Appleby and his associates, started the unravelling of a skein of evidence which finally led to Markman's door. That circumstance was the tip received at police headquarters yesterday that a man whose general appearance did not seem to warrant the possession of such property had tentatively offered for sale at a local jewelry store a new Parker fountain pen elegantly mounted with gold serpent coil. The man could not at once be found and though there was nothing to show that he was "wanted" and every reason to believe that he was a stranger and had probably boarded some outgoing train, Chief Appleby called upon the entire department to assist in the search.

Where "Plot Thickened"

Just about dusk the Chief, himself, came upon a man answering the description standing near the First National bank. It was Elmer Gleason who, with his family, lives in the third floor flat of the old rocky building, 115 East Milwaukee street. Mr. Gleason, when questioned, readily admitted that he had offered such a pen for sale. He said that his fifteen-year-old son, Elmer, had found it in the alley back of the building.

On the face of it, this was a queer place for a fancy fountain pen, and the Chief, when he was thoroughly satisfied that the facts were just as represented, began to make further inquiries. Mr. Gleason said that a family by the name of Davis had moved into the flat below on Monday. Some one of them might have lost it. "The Chief went to see the Davis family and ascertained that a Miss Davis had owned several pens, though not one answering description. However, she volunteered the information that Ben Markman had helped the family move and that she remembered that he had a pocket full of pens and had said something about losing one.

She showed the Chief a pen which Markman had presented to her as a gift and said that she had had a couple run from the same source, but had given them away. A roomer who had become interested in the college suggested that the Chief contact him with the delivery to Markman of the one the Gleason boy had found, as Mr. Parker might think it queer if it were turned over to him. Chief Appleby ignored the suggestion.

Markman in a Trap.
Last night Mr. Parker and the Chief summoned Markman to a conference. The latter appeared to be perfectly self-possessed when shown the pen. He remembered that the company had had a stock of such pens and could not just remember when the last one was sold. The conversation went on in a pleasant vein until Chief Appleby suddenly accused Markman of stealing the pen in question and a number of others. The accused entered an indignant denial. Whereupon the Chief announced his intention of going to the Markman home, 215 Forest Park boulevard and conducting a search.

He ordered a cab and started off, leaving the young man with his employer. Markman's bed-room dresser yielded up eight or ten valuable specimens and the china closet, down stairs, two. His brother, Edward, had a $10 pen which Ben had given him in his pocket and turned it over.

When confronted by all this evidence, Markman is alleged to have withdrawn former denials and made certain admissions. He had given other pens away—one to a flatter, Zabriskie of Ridgewood, N. J., upon the occasion of her visit here; two to a certain woman on Third street; one to a railroad conductor; one to John Grecher, a barber in Warren's shop; and two to Miss Davis—afterward presented by her to Fred Howe.

Only On Small Scale.
Markman was made night watchman at the old factory on Main street right after the big robbery six or seven years ago. A gruelling cross-examination by officers and employers has failed to elicit from him any admission of complicity in any thefts beyond those which have been outlined. So far as can be learned, Ben Markman has always borne a good reputation and has always seemed to justify the trust reposed in him by his employers. He had one thing badly crushed in an accident when he was a mere boy and has been a cripple ever since that time, though he walks without the aid of crutch or cane. He is unmarried.

YOUNG MEN ACTIVE IN Y. M. C. A. WORK

Plans for the Week Laid Out Most Carefully—Much Interest Is Shown.

One of the noted features of the Y. M. C. A. this year is the activity of the young men along the line of bible study. There are now six classes organized and in operation, taught by leading business and professional men. The six classes are divided as follows: One older men's bible class taught by Dr. Stevens; two senior classes taught by S. M. Smith and Prof. Knudson of the high school; three high school classes taught by Prof. Eccles of the Southern Wisconsin business college, D. C. Barker, and E. J. Hageman.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, bible classes are in operation. The classes on Monday, Tuesday and Friday nights have lunch together at the Y. M. C. A. building at 6:30, followed by the class study. These classes all have their own officers—president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Committees from the classes prepare and serve the lunch each week. The religious work committee of the association will organize other classes as the desire is made known by those who wish to enter this most interesting department of the work.

NEW FIRE AUTO IS BEING EQUIPPED

Machine Made the Run From Madison to Janesville Yesterday in Two Hours.

Those who have examined the four cylinder, 40 h. p. Model 16 Buick car which arrived here late yesterday afternoon and is to be used in the service of the fire department, express themselves as well satisfied with the city's acquisition. The machine weighs approximately 3,000 pounds and looks strong enough to stand the racket. The thirty-four inch wheels were fitted out with new tires this morning and Alderman Evans was given a trial spin.

At present the motor car is geared to 35 miles an hour but this will be reduced to 30 miles in order to insure plenty of power to combat with snow and mud and steep inclines. All four wheels will carry mud-chains when the going is heavy. The common council will have to order a special chemical tank to be placed on the rear platform. One with a capacity of 25 gallons will probably be secured. Inexpensive electric lamps will be substituted and some special horn or gong will be devised by Chief Klein and his assistants. The car is a duplicate of the one owned by Harry Nowlan and of the same type but larger than the one used by the Rockford fire chief. The Madison common council, it is said, will put a similar car in commission for its fire department.

Chief Klein denies that he has over-estimated dispatching with the fire and police patrol. If one chemical apparatus is in good, two will do all the more efficient. The police patrol tank carries 30 gallons.

BOY BADLY KICKED IN MOUTH BY HORSE

Lower Jaw Crushed and Upper One Badly Shattered—Skull May Be Fractured.

Fourteen year old George Moodey, son of William Moodey, living two miles south of Afton, was severely injured by the kick of a horse which shattered his lower jaw and badly fractured the upper one, perhaps also inflicting a fracture of the skull. The accident occurred at noon and a local physician happened to be passing in an auto a few minutes later and conveyed the injured boy to the local hospital where he is now confined. The injury is a most serious one and may result fatally.

THE HORSE MADE GOOD

In the past twenty-five years the horse has made good, in spite of the calamity howlers, who have declared man's best friend down and out through the electric cars, the bicycle, the automobile and, in turn, even the flying machine. It will be encouraging news to the faithful to learn through the year book issued by the Department of Agriculture at Washington that the number of horses in the United States have increased from 14,000,000 in 1900 to nearly 20,000,000 in 1910, over 100 per cent in ten years. The increase in 1909 was about 400,000.

The average value of the horse in 1900 was $14.61 each, in 1909, $25.41, and in 1910 $108.19 per head, an increase per head in the last ten years of 150 per cent. The increase in value per head for 1909 was $12.55. In 1909 the total worth of horses in the United States was nearly $1,000,000,000, while the valuation from the same reliable sources for 1910 places the sum at over $2,000,000,000, an increase in value of the horse population during the past ten years of more than 200 per cent.

Add to the above the fact that prices are higher now and the demand greater than for years past, and it would look like a man who doubts the future of the horse must be deaf, dumb, and blind by the rack and kind of prejudice. Facts and figures furnished by E. Ray Lloyd.

Found in the Cask.

Jacob Frit, of Southfield, Conn., took a supposedly empty cask to a elder mill to be filled. On the way he noticed bees flying about him, but he did not discover where they came from until he reached the mill. Seventy pounds of honey were taken from the cask after the bees had been smoked out.

TO HOLD INSURANCE BUSINESS IN SOUTH

Organization Formed in Atlanta Today For Mutual Co-operation and Protection

Special to the Gazette.
Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 8.—Culminating a movement which had its inception at the convention of insurance commissioners in Mobile two months ago, the executive heads of many of the leading insurance companies of the south met in conference here today to complete an organization for co-operation and mutual protection. The chief aim of the new organization will be to induce the people of the South to invest their money in Southern instead of Northern insurance companies. It is alleged that the practice of the people in neglecting home enterprises has resulted in millions of dollars of Southern capital being placed in the treasuries of Northern insurance companies.

About forty companies were represented at the conference here today. Among them were the Southern States Life Insurance Company of Atlanta, the National Life and Accident Insurance Company of Nashville, the Interstate Fire Insurance Company of Birmingham, the Southern Mutual Aid Association of Birmingham, the Alabama Fidelity and Casualty Company of Montgomery, the Equitable Casualty Company of Atlanta, the Southern Insurance Company of Nashville, and others.

Here's a Comment.

The loud-mouthed bully who blantly tells a quiet, peaceable man what he's going to do to him, doesn't prove that the quiet man is afraid of him by a long shot. He only proves that he is a loud-mouthed bully, and when it comes to a showdown he's apt to be something of a coward.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

"A WINNING MISS."

There are three big features of "A Winning Miss." Boyle Woolfolk's real musical comedy which comes to the Myers theatre, Tuesday, December 13. One is Max Bloom, the comedian, who made everybody laugh until their sides ached, when he played in "The Sunny Side of Broadway," the catchy music in the piece, and the beautiful chorus.

Max Bloom needs no introduction to the public, having appeared in "Holly-Tolly," "Telephone Girl," as a German comedian, and in "The Sunny Side of Broadway" as a Hebrew comedian. But in "A Winning Miss," Max appears to the best advantage of his career. In fact, Max has come into his own. He was a great German comedian, a fine Hebrew comedian, but as an eccentric comedian not dependable upon whiskers or a dialect. He is a star of the first magnitude, and it is in that style of a part he will be seen in "A Winning Miss." "A Winning Miss" is the biggest and best production he has ever connected with, and he has the best part of his career, consequently Max Bloom is a knockout, to use the theatrical vernacular.

The second big feature, the music of the piece, is in a class by itself, as every one will testify who attends the first performance. An augmented orchestra of fourteen men is needed to meet the requirements of the musical director, as it is necessary, both on account of such a large and strong singing chorus and also to get the desired effects that a small orchestra cannot produce. The music is both high class and catchy and is rendered by real artists. It was composed by Boyle Woolfolk. Among the biggest hits are "Give," the piece do resistance; "Land of Tomorrow," "Mean Thing," "That'll Look Nice in My Bungalow," "Evergreen Redford," "Hello There, Yankee Lad," "Will O' Wisp," "Different Ways of Making Love," "What I Want is Dreamy Music," and ten more, all of which command the attention of any lover of music. The third feature, the most beautiful chorus on the stage, is that in reality, "A Winning Miss" is the artistic and financial musical comedy success of the season. The company comprises sixty people and a production that stands the management an outlay of $10,000.00. The costumes are beautiful, naturally, at such an expenditure; and the scenic effects equal to any production on Broadway. But there still remains the three big features, Max Bloom, who furnishes the fun; the music which makes you whistle; and a chorus of the most beautiful girls in stageland.

A COOL HEAD AT A HOT TIME.

"The picture" said Mr. Howe, "is one of the kind taken on sudden impulse and in a moment of high tension. The camera recorded images of a critical moment far more graphic than a writer's pen could describe, because the photographer kept his head when all his assistants had panic stricken, under stress of intense excitement. But here is the story. When ominous deepened rumblings and earth-tremors had occurred for several days in the vicinity of Mt. Etna, I sent there one of my most fearless photographers with instructions to 'hang around' in case something happened. That more happened than either of us expected is best proven by the picture itself. The rest of the story is best told by my photographer himself. In his letter describing the experience he says:

"After securing the scenes of the crater emitting the huge volumes of vapor, steam and smoke, a tremendous crash occurred. The earth shook violently. There was a rush of gasous air that almost asphyxiated the camera squad. Some of them obeyed the first impulse of light born of terror and falling volcanic missiles. At this moment I had a chance to get a wonderful picture, but on looking around for my guide who had the panoramic camera, I saw him hot-footing it over the lava beds. Realizing that if I did not get that camera I would miss the chance of a lifetime to get a picture at the brink of a volcano in violent activity, I called to him to stop. He yelled back he would be killed if he stopped and continued in his undaunted rush faster than ever. Then I called to him to drop the camera. Fortunately he obeyed—the half crazed with fear. I can assure you I lost no time in unpacking the camera and getting back to the edge of the crater to take the picture which I have just forwarded to you."

This picture will be shown by Mr. Howe at the Myers theatre, Tuesday, December 27, matinee and evening, with many other scenes that are equally interesting, such as the King's funeral in London a ride up the Eiffel Tower; the floods of Norway; life on a trading ship; the Alps in winter; a Japanese jubilee; building the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, etc.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are eight rules for living which have been posted in a nurses' training school in a California hospital.

(1) I will not permit myself to speak while angry, and I will not make a bitter retort to another person who speaks to me in anger.

(2) I will neither gossip about the failings of another, NOR WILL I PERMIT ANY OTHER PERSON TO SPEAK GROSSLY TO ME. Gossip WILL DIE WHEN IT CANNOT FIND A LISTENER.

(3) I will respect weakness and defer to it in the street car, in the department store and in the home, whether it be displayed by man or woman.

(4) I will always express gratitude for any favor or service rendered to me. If prevented from doing it on the spot, then I will seek an early opportunity to give utterance to it in the most gracious way within my power.

(5) I will not fail to express sympathy with another's sorrow or to give hearty utterance to my appreciation of good works by another, whether the party be friendly to me or not.

(6) I will not talk about my personal ailments or misfortunes. They shall be one of the subjects on which I am silent.

(7) I will neither eat nor drink what I know will detract from my ability to do my best work.

(8) I will strive to be always prepared for the very best that can happen to me. I will seek to be ready to seize the highest opportunity, to do the noblest work, to rise to the loftiest place which God and my abilities permit.

At different times I have been asked to inveigh against the swinging gait, the protruding hat pin, the gum chewing habit, the flirtatiousness, and over so many other bad habits that I can't remember all at once, of the American girl.

The latest indictment I am asked to bring against her is her habit of biting her nails.

"Really it is terrible how many well dressed, refined-looking girls are seen on the street cars and elsewhere, with nails bitten right down to the quick," my correspondent assures me.

Personally, I must admit I had not happened to notice the prevalence of this habit, but I can surely join with her in condemning it, if it is prevalent.

A pretty hand is one of those less obtrusive but none the less potent attractions which go to make up the sum total of a woman's charm.

A brilliant skin, noticeable eyes, fluffy hair, good features, a fine figure—these are the striking attractions that make a girl "pretty."

Vividness of expression, a pretty dimple, a smooth, white forehead, a mobile mouth, long eyelashes, a pretty hand—it is things like these that give a girl "charm."

And I have often thought that if I were given the choice I would rather have the things that give charm than those which make up prettiness.

And so, to return to the original indictment, I simply cannot understand how a girl could be so foolish as to deform her hands by biting her nails.

Incidentally it may be interesting to anyone who has the habit to know that doctors consider it a sign of degeneracy.

Does any girl want degeneracy written across the tips of her fingers? Course she doesn't.

The Kitchen Cabinet

THE men and women who are lifting the world upward and onward are those who encourage more than criticize.

—Elizabeth Harrison.

Kitchen Utensils.

Household appliances have been invented in most cases to sell. Many utensils which are invaluable in a large family are poor investments for a small one.

Any appliance should save more time and labor than it takes to adjust and clean it after using.

A vacuum cleaner which may cost a small sum, saves the housekeeper much hard labor and gives time for recreation and reading is a good investment. It is better than putting that amount into doctor's bills.

A washing machine, a bread mixer, a food chopper, a mop wringer and a mangle are all great strength savers.

The fireless cookers are savors of time, heat and labor. One need not buy an expensive one, as the home-made ones are very satisfactory. The steam cooker is another valuable appliance, especially on the farm or when cooking for a large family.

A zinc-covered table is the greatest comfort to a busy housewife, as it is easy to clean; hot pans and kettles may be placed on it without injury.

The soap shaker is always ready to use in the dish pan and uses the bits of soap that might otherwise be wasted.

The spatula or lumber knife is invaluable in the kitchen, and the small wooden spoon is as easy to stir with and never gets hot when using around the stove. The iron rice and sink strainer are other useful utensils.

The dustpan duster, which may be bought for a quarter of a dollar, is something which every housewife should have. It is simply a piece of cheese cloth treated with oil which holds the dust. The cloth may be washed and its property of holding the dust is not lost. The cloth is not greasy, but it gives a good polish to woodwork.

A small wheeled table with a shelf below and the top covered with zinc is an addition to the comfort of any housewife. It may be wheeled to and from the dining room, thus answering for a tray and stand near the stove when cooking to hold the needed utensils. Such a table is invaluable when once used.

Heavy brass, or copper, or wrought iron ornaments may be used to hold it together, in which case there may be a handle on opposite sides of a corresponding metal.

It is a season of neck draperies and scarves. For mother nothing could be nicer than the scarf made of soft, black satin, lined with white and finished with heavy tassels at each end. Three yards long and 18 inches wide is the usual length. The lining and outside may be sewed around two sides and one end on the wrong side and turned. The edges are then turned in at the other end and a shirring run in to draw it up. The tassels are sewn on with invisible stitches. Each end is finished in the same way. An edging of marabout or fur makes the gift handsome, but is much more expensive.

A beautiful scarf for the debutante is made of fine chiffon in cream. Tint gasoline lavender or pink with oil points, to rather a deep shade. Gather all of one side of the scarf in the upper hand and guide the lower edge into the tinted gasoline. The color will creep up into the goods with a beautiful effect. The edging will be quite dark and the tint grows lighter where it spreads above the part which is dipped under the gasoline. It is well to practice on an old bit of chiffon first. If the worker is artistic, small flowers may be painted in light blue or green will look well on a violet tinted scarf, while yellow poppies look well on yellow, and apple blossoms or parrot tulips on the pink. Oil paints should be used for the tinting and any color desired may be used. Care must be taken to prevent spotting and two can work together better than one can work alone.

A bag like the illustration which is modeled on the duffel bag of the camper, is useful and may be carried in the trunk when fitting times come. Use khaki cloth, or denim in a serviceable shade. Three yards of goods will be required for a good sized bag. Two lengths, a yard and 8 inches deep, are needed up to make a cylinder-shaped bag.

A circle of the cloth 20 inches in diameter is sewed firmly in the lower end and the top is hemmed with a 2-inch hem. A stitched band is double sewed to the side to the bag when sewed to the wash. An initial should be worked on the side and two loops for hanging may be sewed to the upper edge. This bag may be even more serviceable if a cap for the top is made, buttonholes worked in it and buttons sewed on the bag. It will then hold an amazing number of garments and may be closed for the purpose of moving if the girl changes her quarters.

Christmas Ornaments.

To make little dangles for Christmas trees fashion popcorn into little balls, thread with dark green silk thread, dip into gum arabic and cover with any of the colored dyo powders. This makes a pretty ornament. Silver or gold dust may also be used. A quarter's worth of dyo in blue, yellow, red and the like will make a great quantity of balls. If threads are suspended in a glass jar containing water and 10 cents' worth of alum it will adhere to the threads and make little icicles for the tree. Continue to add alum until the strings are the desired thickness. Place in a window or warm place.

Why Not Make a Hatstand?

Both serviceable and dainty is the hatstand of blue flowered tulle, with a blue satin bow by way of decoration. The wooden stands ready for covering are to be bought in the shops.

When silk is not desired chintz or crotonne is a good substitute. For the small girl a bonnet cracker muff of skirred white silk trimmed with bands of swansdown and a little nocket to match will be a delight, while the time and expense involved are not great compared with the charm of the gift.

The Best Literature.

One is sometimes asked by young people to recommend a course of reading. My advice would be that they should confine themselves to the so-called books in whatever literature or, still better, to choose some one great author and make themselves thoroughly familiar with him. For as all roads lead to Rome, so do they likewise lead away from it; and you will find that in order to understand perfectly and weigh exactly any vital place of literature, you will be gradually and pleasantly persuaded to excurations and explorations of which you little dreamed of when you began and you will find yourselves scholars before you are aware.—James Russell Lowell.

MORPHINE RELIEVED PAIN—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY—STORES TO HEALTH

For the past few years I suffered greatly from what three physicians called neuralgia of the stomach. The doctors treated me without any success and I called in a fourth doctor, who pronounced my disease gastric. I suffered intense pain and the only relief I could get was by the use of morphine. I was so completely discouraged that I had almost given up hope when a neighbor told me about Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-root. I decided to try it and began its use at once and after taking five bottles was completely cured, not having a spell of sickness since.

I have so much confidence in Swamp-root that I never fail to recommend it to my friends who may have kidney trouble or any kind. I feel certain that Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-root saved my life, which I should not do otherwise to others who take it in time.

You are at liberty to use this testimony at any time.

ROCK COUNTY GIRL RECEIVES LETTER FROM AERONAUTS

Daughter of Martin Dixon Has Inter-

Post the Pilot of Big Balloon.

When the balloons of the St. Louis International race passed over Janesville a few weeks ago, one of them America-11, with Augustus Post as pilot, passed over Janesville and the adjacent country so low that they spoke to many who were up early enough to see them. This is the balloon that disappeared in the Cane and dan forest and won the long race and the James Gordon Bennett cup. One little Rock county girl, the nine year old daughter of Martin Dixon, of the town of Rock was interested enough in the fate of Mr. Post to write him a letter of congratulation upon being safe after his long journey and received the following letter from him in return.

136 11th St. New York City, N. Y.
Nov. 24, 1910.

My Dear Miss Dixon:
Thank you for your very kind letter and your thoughtfulness for our safety. Mr. Hawley was not more pleased nor touched than I by your interest and I wish to express our very kindest regards to you and sincere wishes for your success and happiness. The hardships which we suffered are more than made up by the pleasure of knowing so many people were glad of our safety.

Very Sincerely
AUGUSTUS POST.

But he has made arrangements for a good contest to be played here next Saturday evening with the basketball team last year were the championship of Milwaukee and so far this season have defeated all their opponents. MRS. FLORA WINSTON IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Died Last Monday Evening at Oak
Park, Ill.—Was An Early Settler
In Evansville.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Dec. 7.—Word was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Flora Winston which occurred Monday night at the home of a friend in Oak Park, Ill. Mrs. Winston had been a sufferer from dropsy for about a year and a half, the greater part of which time she had spent in a hospital in Chicago. Mrs. Winston was well known in this city having come here in an early day. Her maiden name was Flora Brown and her father was one of the first settlers of Evansville. He lived in the house which stood on the lot where the Eagle Free Public Library now stands and kept the post office there in pioneer times.

She was married in 1862 to Dr. Egbert Winston, who served as a surgeon in the Civil war and later practiced medicine here. Dr. Winston died more than twenty-five years ago. She was deeply interested in educational work and after his death conducted a private kindergarten here and also taught for awhile in Chicago. SANTA CLAUS HAS ASKED FOR LETTERS

Wants His Friends in Janesville and Rock County To Write Him Their Christmas Wishes.

There must have been some delay, either in the wireless department of old Santa's North Pole home, or the carrier pigeon failed to reach us on time but anyway the Patron Saint of Childhood's request for his annual mail bag of Christmas letters was delayed and did not reach the Gazette until this morning. As the time is so late you will have to hurry, little people, to get your letters into that mail bag that will leave the Gazette office at midnight of Friday, December 16, for the North Pole. Write your letters on one side of the paper only. Make them just as plain as possible and address them like this:

Santa Claus
Care of the Gazette.
Janesville, Wis.

Be sure and put a two cent stamp on the envelope or leave them yourself at the Gazette office. The bag will be locked up and sent away by an airplane to good old Santa's home the night of Friday, December 16th, so you will have to hurry up. If you cannot write plausibly yourself, your mother or father to do it for you. Be sure and tell what you want and where you live so there will be no mistake. Remember the mail bag closes on Friday of next week so get your letters in as soon as you can.

BUTCHER MAKES UNIQUE WILL

Provides Sons of Carl Schroeder
Shake Dice For Parent's Estate.

Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 8.—When Carl Schroeder, a butcher, was told a month ago that he could not live long, he went for a lawyer to help make his will. Schroeder could not decide on how to divide the property between his two sons and finally told the lawyer to draw a will providing that after the funeral of their father the sons should shake dice for the entire estate. The will was so drawn, and filed for probate here and created a great sensation. If the court allows it to stand, the sons say they will carry out the wishes of their father and settle the bones on their return from the funeral.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and unless you get a few cents worth of Catarrh Remedy, you are sure to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore you must have constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. There is no other remedy so powerful for any case it fully cures. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS ASKED OF OFFICIALS

Anxious Citizen Wants To Know By What Right Wisconsin Telephone Company Places Pole On Private Property.

The Gazette is in receipt of the following communication signed Anxious Citizen, which might well be asked by many property holders in the Third Ward:

To the Editor:
Can you explain by what legal right the Wisconsin Telephone Company can invade a private property and place one of its unsightly telephone poles there? It would seem to me that this is a direct trespass and that the company would be liable for damages, or at least compelled to take the pole out. Even at that a pole may be ruined and property otherwise damaged.

The Common Council has granted this company the right to lay its conduits along Milwaukee and Main streets, block the sidewalks with their poles, destroy the good paying for which tax payers were under heavy expense to lay and now the company apparently thinks it owns the city as a whole and plants its poles where it will without regard to the rights or convenience of individuals.

Anxious Citizen.

In answer to this City Attorney Anxious states this morning that the company in question has no right to use private property without permission of the owner and that the franchise the company holds with the city is merely to string wires along the streets and not across any property. Consequently this should be taken to mean that it is within the property owners rights to prevent the erection of such poles.

Jury Service In Dickens' Time.

If it's near dinner time, the foreman takes out his watch when the jury have returned and says: "Dear me, gentlemen, ten minutes to five, I declare! I dine at five, gentlemen." "So do I," says everybody except two men who ought to have dined at three, and seem more than half disposed to stand out in consequence. The foreman smiles, and puts up his watch: "Well, gentlemen, what do we say? Plaintiff, defendant, gentlemen? I rather think so far as I am concerned, gentlemen—say I rather think—but don't let that influence you—I rather think the plaintiff's the man." Upon this two or three other men are sure to say they think so, too—as of course they do; and then they get on very unamusingly and comfortably.—From Dickens.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

PROPER MONODIET OVER- COMES DYSPEPSIA.

Interesting experiments made by Pavlov, referred to in previous "Hints," have shown that each particular food requires a secretion peculiar to itself for its proper digestion; and it can be shown that the same is true of elimination, as the varying character of decaying ferments indicates. This alone argues against the common practice of excessive mixing of foods at the same meal, although there are other objections. Good digestion must depend largely upon the distinctive flavor of the food, and hence the mistake of destroying this by flavoring. When one suffering from dyspepsia is placed upon a single food that supplies the needed elements of nutrition there is constant improvement even if the other conditions for recovery are not well provided for. The common practice of excessive flavoring and mixing of dishes so as to obscure the natural flavor is a prolific source of disease and early decay.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

CHAPTER XIII.

THE MORNING PAPER.

"I SHALL be able to pay you for my breakfast and the messenger now," said Loveland. "And if you've a private room I'd like to engage it till afternoon, when I can send to the hotel again and find the cable telling me how and where to get the money on my letter of credit. It's rather awkward being here in these clothes and—"

"We haven't got a private room," replied the girl, "except our own parlor. I wish you had, because—because I guess you're just about right. You oughtn't to be here today sitting around dressed that way. You might be noticed and—"

"She hesitated, then began to speak again quickly in a low voice. "See here, Mr.—Mr. Gordon. I don't know but I'd better tell you something. Bend down, I don't want the waiters to hear. Truly don't catch on to English much, but folks always understand when you don't want 'em to. Of course it's all right about Bill, as he's your friend. I suppose he knows."

"Knows what?" inquired Val. "Why—it's in the paper—this morning's light."

"Oh!" The blood sprang to Val's face, his scar showing very white. No need, it seemed, for further questions. He thought he knew what Miss Isadora Alexander had been reading in the paper and cursed himself for having uttered the name of Loveland. If he had not told her that inquiries must be made at the Waldorf for Lord Loveland's cablegram and letters she would not associate Mr. Gordon, Bill Williams's friend, with the hero of the New York Light's story.

The end Milton had evidently made up some tale on recovering his disgusting scars, a tale not too damaging to himself, and had named his assailant.

"Give me the paper, please," Val demanded.

"Not now," said the girl. "Dutchy's looking, and that silly boy Blinsky has just come in. Better not let 'em guess we're alluding to anything in the paper."

"Is it about my knocking a man down?" asked Loveland.

"Yes, a swell well known in society. I've seen his name often in Town Chat. And it's about you at the hotel too."

Suddenly it seemed to Val that he would not have the heart to read that article about himself in the newspaper.

"That scene of his humiliation in the Waldorf restaurant and afterward in the hall. How could he bear to see it all set out in vulgar print, accompanied perhaps by an 'interview' with the hotel employee who had turned him into the street? No; he could not look at the paper, could not see himself held up to public ridicule, probably by the pen of the man he had ordered from his door with Cadwallader Hunter yesterday in the morning."

"I broke in upon the girl's reveries. "Never mind that part now," he said. "That's nothing. Has the man Milton set the police on me?"

"Nope; I guess not. There's a kind of interview with him in the paper, and he says he deserves what he got for having anything to do with a man of your sort. He says after he'd told you exactly what he thought of you you hit him from behind, which I don't believe, because you ain't that kind, I'll bet."

"Thank you," said Loveland, looking so handsome in the parlor of his anger that the Jewish girl could not take her eyes from his face.

"No, I'm not that kind of man," Val echoed her words. "Evidently the cowardly beast must have picked himself up before he was seen; otherwise, as he was lying on his fat back, his story about having been hit from behind would hardly have held water. Will the police do anything on their own responsibility, do you think?"

"Not unless somebody sends them looking for you, I hope," Isadora reassured him, flattered that she should be taken into consultation. "This Milton says in the interview he don't want to be mixed up in a scandal or called on as a witness against you in a police court."

"This own scandal!" broke out Loveland. "I'll know I can defend myself only too well. And, being a cad himself, he doesn't know that I wouldn't bring in certain names."

"I shall have to send again for the cablegram, no matter what happens," said Val. "I must get money."

"Sure you can get it," Isadora asked in a confidential yet somewhat doubtful tone.

"Of course I'm sure. I have my letter of credit—the one thing I did manage to keep."

"Yes, but—"

"There isn't any but," cut in Loveland impatiently. "It's certain to be all right this afternoon at latest. The cable will have come to the hotel, and then I shall know what to do. Even supposing the police should arrest me for that affair—well, at worst, the within a day or two."

"Oh, indeed it wouldn't!" exclaimed the pretty Jewess. "I don't know what mightn't happen to you. You will be careful, won't you—if it's only to please me?" And her eyes were large and beseeching.

"You're very kind to take an interest," said Val, really grateful, though he had to restrain an impulse to draw back from her advances. "Of course I don't want to be let in for a scandal which might do others harm as well as me—and would, if that beast Milton could manage it. I'm not exactly plugging to see the inside of a New York jail, which you seem to think I'm in danger of doing. Things are bad enough as it is." And his face darkened, for he thought that after the least possible publicity the newspapers were now giving the name of Loveland he might have difficulty in bringing down such game as he had crossed the sea to seek.

"Oh, I'm sorry you think things here are so bad," returned Isadora, flushed and pouting.

"You know I don't mean things here," protested Val, with less truth than politeness. "You're too good to me, and I appreciate it all immensely."

"Do you?" she asked, her eyes liquid.

"Of course I do. I hope I shall be able to prove that before long."

"Well," she said warmly, "I mean to go on being good—better—best to you, for I'm studying out a plan to get your things away from the Waldorf-Astoria hotel and all the same to keep you out of trouble. You're a foreigner and don't understand our ways yet, but I'll see you through all right."

"How are you going to do that, my guardian angel?" Val smiled at the pretty girl.

Isadora had the sensation of being bathed in perfumed cream. His "guardian angel!" She had been called a number of nice things, such as a "real beauty," a high flier and a "Florida bird," but no one had ever called her as his guardian angel before, and with all her flair, his scar showing very white. No need, it seemed, for further questions. He thought he knew what Miss Isadora Alexander had been reading in the paper and cursed himself for having uttered the name of Loveland. If he had not told her that inquiries must be made at the Waldorf for Lord Loveland's cablegram and letters she would not associate Mr. Gordon, Bill Williams's friend, with the hero of the New York Light's story.

"Do you?" she asked, her eyes liquid.

"No," answered Bill, "I ain't seen it. Miss Lizzie offered me the paper, but I—well, I didn't care to read it. Seemed as if 'twould sorer be spyin' on you behind your back."

"You're a good fellow," said Val. "I don't see where the goodness comes in," protested Bill modestly. "But I can run back and sneak the paper if you've changed your mind and want a squint at it."

"No, thank you," said Val, though he half scorned himself for moral cowardice. "I've no wish to see how deep New York journalism has pushed me into the mud."

Rebecca Gernsbacher returned from her morning's shopping to ask almost as many questions as she drew breath, freezing into a cold statue of suspicion as her mysterious guest froze into reticence. Not having heard the name of Loveland, who did not associate any sensational headlines in the morning paper with Isadora's "swell man," but there was no crime between pocket picking and murder of which she did not believe the handsome, sulky fugitive easily capable.

Loveland had begun to tell himself gloomily that it would soon be too late to draw money from any bank when Isadora appeared in great splendor at the basement door. She had on a large picture hat of red velvet, nodding with cheap ostrich plumes which shaded from palest pink to deepest magenta, and in her "selecter suit" coat she looked as little like a lady as a beautiful girl could possibly look. But she was enchanted with herself and evidently expected to impress Loveland by her taste and elegance.

"Well," she panted, having kissed her friend Isadora and dusted off a chair with the big muff which matched her cloak. "Well, I've got news for you, Mr. Gordon. Guess what it is."

In the first place, he had been cross and hadn't wanted her to go out, but when she had teased he had only gumbled a little, and directly after dinner—before Bill came back—she had taken an "L" train downtown to consult the husband of a great friend of hers. This gentleman she had persuaded to leave business—he being a tobacco merchant—and to drop in at the Waldorf-Astoria, with the object of making certain inquiries. She had not, she said, confided any secrets to her friend, though she was sure she might have done so safely, but had merely pleaded a passionate yearning for further details of the "story" in the New York Light. What were the hotel people going to do? Were they searching for the Englishman, and if so, had they got upon his track?

Mr. Rosenfeld, being an occasional customer of the Waldorf bar when he "laid on his gladder nose," did not hesitate to undertake the mission. He went to the hotel and asked questions without arousing any suspicion that he was actuated by a deeper motive than idle curiosity, and he learned that the staff of the Waldorf-Astoria took but little interest in the gentleman calling himself Lord Loveland. The Englishman had gone away without paying for his rooms, as the newspapers had said, the hotel people admitted, but goods worth about the amount owing had been left behind. Anything that might have happened, anything of which the Englishman might be accused, did not concern the Waldorf-Astoria now that he was no longer a resident of the hotel, and employees had been instructed not to gossip either in his favor or disfavor. The late Lord Loveland was now shelled as a "back number."

And nobody had called or written! This lack of courtesy showed, to his mind, that Jim's and Betty's friends had all read the newspapers and had taken his affair with Milton in bad part. The man Milton was to blame for the scandal, which had doubtless been spread by Cadwallader Hunter's journalist friend in revenge for a snub. Cadwallader Hunter's malice, too, must have been another match to light the fire of mischief, and taking everything together, Loveland began to fear that the game in America was up. He began to tell himself that the dignified course was to turn his back on America and march homeward with flags flying as if he had suffered no defeat. Yes; that was what he would do. It would be discreditable and his name to go down and wreath in the arena with enemies who did not pretend to fight fair. Yet—to leave this country forever, with no hope of seeing Lesley Bourne again! She had not even given him her address and had only laughed at him when he suggested "calling on her some day after everything was comfortably settled." He knew no more than that she lived "near Lenoxville," therefore he could not write to her that she would not believe any letter from the newspapers might interest. Oh, yes, it was all over—that little episode, which had been so sweet, which had taught him that he had heart enough to love and long for a woman because of what she was, not because of what she had.

"You needn't look so broken up," said Isadora. "Wait till I come to the end of the story. I've got a messenger waiting in the street with something for you. I wouldn't let him in till we'd had our talk. Now I'm going to call him down to cheer you up a bit."

She hurried off her chair, ran to the door and shouted up from the level of the basement to the street. In another moment a uniformed youth walked in and deposited a large paper wrapped bundle, but it was not until he had been sent away that Isadora began to open the parcel.

"I wanted to get the lot," she said, "but, my, the bill was high—way above me. I'd 825 I'd been saving up—oh, for something, but you needn't care. I'd a heap rather do this than buy any old thing for myself. And here's what they give me after a lot of fuss."

FEDERAL TROOPS TAKE TOWNS

Arrest of Arizona Regarded as Pretext to Get Him to Mexico City for Trial on Charge of Sedition—Madero's Chief Advisor.

City of Mexico, Dec. 8.—When entering the house of deputies, Deputy Salvador Diaz Miron, of Puebla, noted throughout Mexico as a poet, shot twice, and slightly wounded in the temple, Deputy Juan Chapital, of Oaxaca. Hot words occurred between the two men before the shooting. It is said there was a long standing feud between them. Chapital scuffled with his assailant, preventing him from shooting again.

Both men are known throughout Mexico. The police were immediately notified, but no arrests were made, as deputies are exempt while serving. It is expected that Miron will be expelled by the chamber and that he will then be arrested. The affair caused great excitement. The chamber of deputies immediately adjourned.

It is thought that a battle is now going on at Guerrero. The government troops who left Chihuahua recently discovered when they arrived at Santa Isabel that rebels had been holding Santo Tomas. They fled on hearing of the approach of the government troops, who then went on and united with other troops at Camahuich and proceeded towards Guerrero. The latter town has been strongly fortified by the rebels. It is expected that if the government troops attack the place there will be a bloody battle, as the rebels are prepared to make their first strong stand there.

An official report has been received that federal troops under the command of Gen. Navarro have captured San Andres, a small town near Chihuahua, held by the rebels. Only a few rebels were found there and they scattered at once to the hills. None was captured. The town was taken almost without firing a shot.

Minister Creel says regarding the arrest of Arizona that it has no political significance, but the opinion here is different. It is believed the charge on which extradition is asked is simply a pretext to bring him here, when he will be tried on the charge of sedition. He is considered to be Madero's principal advisor.

PAY TRIBUTE TO VON STEUBEN

Statue of the Distinguished German Unveiled in Washington.

Washington, Dec. 8.—President Taft, Secretary of War Dickinson, Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, Representative Bartholdt of Missouri, and representatives of German societies from different parts of the country paid tribute to Baron von Steuben on the occasion of the unveiling of his statue here, Secretary Dickinson presided at the ceremonies.

Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the president, unveiled the statue. It is located on the northwest corner of Lafayette square, opposite the White House. On other corners are statues of LaFayette, Rochambeau and Kosciuszko.

CHILD IS BURNED TO DEATH

Was in Act of Mailing Letter to "Santa Claus" in Chimney Postbox.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 8.—Left for a moment alone after she had exhibited a letter to her mother addressed to "Santa Claus," seven-year-old Mildred Willockson, who had just been taught to write, was enveloped in flames as she tried to mail a letter in the postoffice box she thought was up the chimney.

Mrs. Willockson heard the child's screams, but arrived too late. Death followed in a short time from the burns.

BARRIER WINS BIG AIR PRIZE

Defeats John Molassant in Sixteen Mile Airship Race at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 8.—Reno Barrier flew sixteen miles in 10 minutes, 55 and 15 seconds, being a new world's record for the distance. Barrier's average height was 4,000 feet and his speed was at the rate of 87.9-100 miles an hour.

He won the Commercial Appeals $5,000 prize for a triangular flight. He defeated John B. Molassant, who flew the sixteen miles in his monoplane, passing over the city at a height of 6,500 feet.

COOKING CLASS IS POISONED

Potomac Poisoning Follows Eating of Oysters Prepared by Girls.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 8.—An upheaval in the Technical High school of this city occurred when twenty-four girls, all members of the cooking class, were stricken with potomac poisoning after eating oysters they had prepared themselves.

Fifty-two girls were in the two classes that were given instruction in preparing oysters, and acting on the idea that all had eaten at least some of the sea food each girl was given an emetic.

HANG TWO NEGROES TO TREE

Mob Takes Prisoners Away From Alabama Deputy Sheriff.

Monroeville, Ala., Dec. 8.—Calvin Ekele and Sylvester Pilton, negroes, were found hanging to a tree at Double Branch, two miles from here. They had been arrested on a charge of robbing the barn and outhouses of Edgar Bass and were said to have confessed.

A deputy sheriff of Monroe county had them in charge and was bringing them here for safe keeping when he was overpowered by unidentified men, his prisoners taken from him and hanged.

Common Names.

The commonness of the name John is due to the fact that 40 days in the year are associated in the Roman calendar with some saint, martyr, confessor or beatus named John, and formerly one took his name from the saint on or near whose day he was born. In Domesday Book William is the commonest name, then Robert, then Walter. Magdalen used at one time to be a fairly popular name.

All Within Thirty Minutes.

Mrs. McAuliffe left home early the other morning, telling her family she had "an appointment with the dentist to do some dental work on her teeth." She was wearing her destination when a stranger accosted her and asked her the way to Judge Brown's house. "You keep along this road," she explained with gracious condescension, "all you come to a prechthonous hill and the house is on the apex."

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe

No Better Remedy at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and 5 pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the faded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasant taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in vitamin and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Financial Cynology.

Long ago, on an occasion when the stock market showed signs of manipulation in an advance defying all the current news, one of the shrewdest writers on stocks started to describe it as "bamboozle." The adjective "did not satisfy him and he modified it to "dumbbony." This did not quite express the peculiar condition and he was reduced to inventing a word. The word was "blindbambony."

✻ FORTY YEARS AGO ✻

The Janesville Gazette, Dec. 8, 1870.—Jottings.—The dime readings at the Court Street M. E. church, last evening, were favored with their usual patronage, and elicited quite as much interest as preceding entertainments of this nature. Pupils and teachers from the blind institution furnished most of the music.

The church extension society connected with the First M. E. church of this city, propose to furnish an oyster supper tomorrow evening at the home of H. F. Hill, No. 3 Dodge street. All friends of the society are invited to be present to enjoy a pleasant evening in the promotion of a worthy cause.

Deputy United States Marshall Comstock is a popular man with business firms who find it necessary to convert their goods into cash. He has been successfully employed in closing out several establishments, and his latest venture is on the stock of candles, cigars, toys, etc., belonging to the firm of Kuhly and Manning. Their store was open to the public this morning, and the goods will be disposed of at a bankrupt sale.

One of our city attorneys refused to proceed with a case in the circuit court this morning, for the reason that he did not care to assist his client in perpetrating a fraud. Judgment of dismissal was entered.

The bankrupt sale of the Colwell stock of drugs begins tomorrow, under charge of Dr. Treat, assistant. All are going at very low prices.

It is desired that all members of the Young Men's association be present at the meeting tomorrow evening, as the subject of the court house will be acted upon, and suggestions of those composing the association are wanted.

A surprise party was given by the teachers of the city schools last evening, to Prof. Parker, at his residence in the Fourth ward.

WILLIAM SPROULE, NEW PRESIDENT OF THE WELLS FARGO EXPRESS COMPANY.

San Francisco, Cal.—Wm. Sproule, formerly freight traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, one of the best known railroad officials in California, and lately a director and traffic manager of the American Smelting and Refining company, has been elected president of the Wells Fargo Express company, to succeed the late Colonel Dudley Evans, who died in March of this year. During the same meeting of directors at which Sproule was elected president he was also elected a director of the company, to succeed A. K. Vandeventer. F. B. Underwood, president of the Erie system, who held the position of managing director of the Wells Fargo pending a decision relative to the new president, resigned that position, but will remain with the board.

Abstinence Necessary.

Did you ever note how a dog, even a puppy, will avoid meat once in a while and then promptly recover appetite? Indian youths, as a part of their training, were compelled to make long journeys through the forests while abstaining from food. In the feudal days of Japan the child had the same ordeal thrust upon him for his health's sake. The Indian and Japanese today furnish us Americans mute types of endurance.

SURELY BREAKS THE MOST SEVERE COLD

Will overcome all distress from a bad cold or the Grippe in just a few hours.

The most severe cold will be broken, and all gripple misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most unbearable neuralgia pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distresses vanish.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or gripple.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or the gripple misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

For Girls Who Lack Decision.
Every girl ought to bear in mind that decision is one of the most important attributes of life, and that too often the truth is proved of "he who hesitates is lost." Things should never be done by halves; if a thing is right to do it must be done boldly and at once, and if it is wrong, let it severally alone. Remember that each day and his actions constitute a little life, and that our whole life is but a day repeated.

How Honors Were Earned.
Extracts from old records showing how people had earned the honor in former days, were read at Canterbury, England, and ex-mayors were granted the freedom of the city. One citizen received the freedom for "undertaking to serve as cook at every mayor's Michaelmas feast," another "because he cured Nicholas Johnson's leg," and a third "because he married a widow with a large family."

Beware of Tight Cough, Precedes Pneumonia.

Home-Made Syrup Loosens.

You can make a simple laxative cough syrup which will loosen the tightest cough in one hour and cure any cough or cold in a very short time. Here is the formula:

Essence mentho-laxene 2½ Ozs.
Granulated sugar syrup ... 12½ Ozs.

Make the syrup by using a pint of granulated sugar and a half pint of boiling water. Mix, stir and let cool. Then go to the drug store and buy a 2½ oz. package of Essence Mentho-Laxene (concentrated), empty it into a pint bottle and fill up with the syrup. Take a teaspoonful every hour or two as needed and you will soon be entirely rid of your cough and cold. This relieves and cures old people quicker and surer than anything ever heard of, and it is just fine for children, they like the taste so well.

Compared with labeled cough preparations, you'll save 3 or 4 dollars, and not be taking chloroform or harmful constipating mixtures.

Delivery Horses

And Horses Doing Heavy Teaming Need Feed That Will Keep Them Hard and Capable of Doing a Full Day's Work Every Day in the Year.

Winter is here with its cold and snow and slush and rain and the most important item for every horse owner to consider is feed. Proper feeding will keep your horses in good condition, enable them to withstand the hardships of winter and do much more work than any other one thing you can do for them. Hence—the feed problem is the most important one you have to consider. When you buy feed you want the most for your money.

Case's Molasses Feed

HAS BEEN TESTED REGULARLY BY THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN EXPERTS AND HAS IN EACH AND EVERY INSTANCE BEEN FOUND TO CONTAIN MORE PROTEIN AND FATS AND LESS FIBRE IN PROPORTION THAN ANY FEED OF ANY KIND.

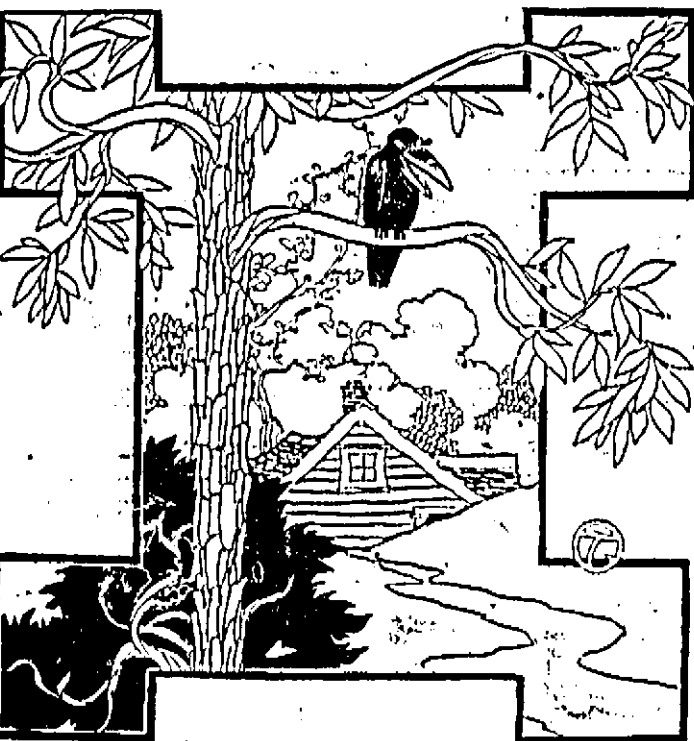

It is composed of corn, barley, bran and molasses. The molasses acts as an aid to digestion and is a "conditioner." There is no secret process of manufacture. The only secret of the success of this feed is COMMON SENSE AND THE BEST INGREDIENTS.

This feed is not only a most excellent horse feed, but if intelligently fed to cows it is a good milk producer as it keeps them sleek and fat, and in every instance we will guarantee it to increase the flow of milk. This is an important fact that every farmer should know at this time of the year. Feed it to run-down calves and colts and we will also guarantee it to get you results or your money back.

Don't wait—phone or mail your order.
